

This text aims to humanize medical education, with the emphasis on primary care. It is divided into five major sections: Developmental Issues, covering life span events; Love and Work, examining human sexuality and the world of work; Assessment and Patients; Behavioural Medicine, devoted to alcoholism, cardiovascular diseases and AIDS; and Behavioural Science Foundations, covering topics such as sleep, brain behaviours, sociology and medical economics. Every chapter concludes with a case study and National Board style questions are also included so that this book can be used to review and prepare for the NBME examinations.
